Ashley Jacobs

Solutions Engineering Leader at Cisco South Africa

Ashley is the Solutions Engineering Leader for Cisco South Africa. He brings a wealth of knowledge, having worked in the industry for the last 19 years. Ashley joined Cisco in 2007 as a systems engineer working with service providers. He later moved on to work with small and large private customers before supporting Cisco Gold partners in the channel. He then worked with public sector customers where he applied his specialisation in IoT.

He was the IoT lead for Sub Saharan Africa before taking up the role as Business Solutions Architect for Sub Saharan Africa. In his current role, Ashley leads the engineering team, drives strategic engagements and supports the business. Prior to joining Cisco, Ashley held the position of Systems Engineer at Grintek Technologies where he started his career in 2004. Outside of the office, he enjoys tennis, hiking, DIY and spending time with family.
